To my students, past and present, who have been part of more than a decade of study, experimentation and laughter that has made this book possible – but who also had to put up with being guinea-pigs for all the not-so-good ideas that didn't make it into this edition.

Also with long overdue thanks to my parents, Christine and Merv, who have been tireless sources of encouragement and inspiration on every step of my various mad adventures.

And a special thanks to my wife Katherine, who continues to be both my muse and greatest source of delight – for her constant support, her unconditional faith, and for being oxygen for the fire whenever I come bouncing into the room with “I’ve had a great idea!”. Katherine, none of this – none of this – would be possible without you.
